

Is the pressure increased in flat horizontal ducts?

Ducts with small cross section (flat ducts and PT Bars) can see high pressures occur with typical grout plants. One strategy to address this is to use a grout header to limit the pressure in those cases. Alternatively, a smaller grout plant or different type of grout plant may be an option (especially air operated plants as compared to hydraulic or electric which can be somewhat easier to throttle down to low flows/pressures).